Campbell High closing

Judge hears high school suit

By PAT SAFFORD

THE FUTURE of Campbell High School is now in the hands of superior court Judge Peter Anello. A decision on the move to block the closure of the local school this June is awaiting Anello's ruling, which is expected as early as this Friday.

Last Tuesday the legal battle between the city of Campbell and the Friends of Campbell High School and the school district got underway in superior court. Initial efforts by the Campbell Union High School District, to have the suit dismissed, were unsuccessful.

The district charged that two points brought out in the suit were invalid; that an environmental impact report (EIR) should have been considered and that the citizen's group that rated criteria for school closure was improperly selected.

ANELLO RULED against the district in both cases and, instead, set the suit for trial.

After a day and a half of testimony, which ended last Friday, the judge took the case under advisement.

Both Campbell and Camden high schools are slated for closing this June. Students have already been assigned to new schools for next fall and staff assignments are expected to be completed in early April.

The friends of Campbell High School have been fighting the closure since it was announced last fall. They were joined by the city in the EIR argument earlier this year.

Norman Matteoni represented the citizens' group in court with City Attorney Bob Dempster representing the city. Carol Stevens served as counsel for the school district.

The citizens' group and the city argue that the possible impact of the school closure on the community should have been considered in any decision by the school board. District officials say that requirement only deals with decisions on use of a school site after it has been closed, not on the closure vote itself.

In addition, the citizens' group argued against the criteria set up for school closure and on the way the district's advisory group on school closure was set up.

That group, Friends of Campbell High School say, should have been made up of representatives of the business and professional community, as well as school leaders, as set forth in the state Education Code.

The district argues that, again, this state-mandated committee, deals with the disposition of school sites rather than with the initial decision of which schools to close.

That closure decision, the district argues, rests solely with the local school board.

If the city-citizens' group lawsuit is successful in blocking the school closure even temporarily, it may well mean the high school will never be closed.

Another local group has been studying setting up a unified school district to serve the city of Campbell, including both elementary, junior and high schools. Initial response from a poll of residents, shows there is both the support and the students to create a new school district.

A ruling against the citizens' - city lawsuit, could lay the issue of closing Campbell High School to rest. Campbell High students will be parcelled out to Westmont, Prospect and Blackford high schools this fall.

Not everyone was happy at the photo-taking session at City Hall last week for the annual Easter Egg Hunt and Easter Bonnet Contest, slated for Saturday, April 5, at John D. Morgan Park. Little Molly Branning, left foreground, found the giant Easter Bunny a little too scary. The fifth annual parade and egg hunt begins at 10 a.m. that day at the park and is open to youngsters from 2 to 10 years old. Admission is free and so are the chocolate eggs the Easter Bunny will be leaving at the park. Call 378-8141 weekdays for more information. Other "bunny fans" include, clockwise from left, Laura Pine, Julie Duggan, Charlie Pena, Maria Costanini, Troy Cadei, Melissa Pini and (looking at the giant bunny) Meghan Branning.

Decision in June?

Supreme Court ponders Prune Yard petition case

By ANNE BRENNAN

ORAL ARGUMENTS were delivered before the U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday, March 18, in a case that started at the PruneYard Shopping Center in 1975 when a teacher and two students were attempting to circulate petitions and were asked to leave the premises.

According to Philip Hammer, attorney for the teacher and two students, the growth of shopping centers has proved to the demise of the public square. He adds that shopping centers attract people to a "common area" and owners should allow free exchange between patrons.

Jim Daniels, of Latham and Watkins — a Los Angeles firm representing the PruneYard, said the shopping center owner has a right to his private property and a First Amendment right of silence.

"He basically has the choice to use or not use his First Amendment rights," Daniels said.

Daniels thinks there is going to be more than one decision coming down because different justices asked questions on different aspects of the case and possible repercussion if shopping centers are deemed public property.

"THE CHIEF Justice (Warren Burger) asked if the case would extend to hotel lobbies that have shops in them," Daniels said. "Justices Byron White and Potter Stewart asked what the difference between shopping centers and private property would be."

DANIELS SAID because of the probability of more than one opinion it will probably take the court until June to hand down a final decision.

"From our standpoint we got into the argument all we hoped to get in," he said.

Hammer didn't have an opinion one way or the other.

"They (the justices) didn't give any hints as to what way they were going to decide," Hammer said. "They did ask a lot of questions."

The Supreme Court review comes after the California Supreme Court said that the state constitution protects the right of those passing petitions.

The state Supreme Court decision was a reversal of two lower court opinions that shopping center owners can control who come on to their property.

Hammer said that the appeals were based on rights of citizens under the California Constitution to pass petitions on that kind of property.

BUT DANIELS said the U.S. Supreme Court has already decided shopping centers are private property in the 1970 Lloyd v. Tanner case. The opinion in that case involved a man who entered an Oregon shopping center to gather signatures on an anti-war petition and was asked to leave. He subsequently sued on constitutional grounds and the court found shopping centers to be private property and the owners could control who goes on the premises.

According to Daniels, the state Supreme Court stopped short of this decision, looking mainly at the rights guaranteed in the state constitution.

Hammer thinks that the U.S. Supreme Court has made it clear that states have the power to grant broader rights to its citizens, than given in the U.S. Constitution.

He is quick to note that until the U.S. Supreme Court decides otherwise, the state law currently allows for the passing of petitions on shopping center property.

"It's still the law in California," he said.

Supervisor's 'cop-out'?

MORGA discussion sparks lively debate

By ANNE BRENNAN

SANTA CLARA County Supervisor Rod Diridon addressed the City Council, last Monday, in an effort to inform Campbell officials where the Board stands on the Municipal Organization Act (MORGA) annexations.

He said the board will approve of any annexations provided the bonded indebtedness is not carried on to those coming into the city.

"There are many advantages to Campbell if it rounds out its boundaries," Diridon said. "The county is prepared to give up its accrued taxes for services and we're the only county in the state that has transferred those taxes."

Because the county is willing to give the tax revenue to the annexing city, he doesn't think it is necessary for Campbell to pass taxes — voted on by citizens of Campbell — on to the newly annexed citizens.

COUNCILMAN Bill Podgorsek was enraged by what he sees as a change in what is allowed.

"We are now 18 months into this MORGA thing and as far as I'm concerned it is a cop-out by the board," he said. "As far as I'm concerned it's the fourth quarter, the ninth inning and we're getting new rules."

Podgorsek noted that the MORGA legislation allows for the transfer of bonded indebtedness.

Diridon retorted that the votes on the board have to be dealt with.

"If there is no bonded indebtedness the Board will probably approve it," he said.

Diridon said there are three groups of thought on the board at this point. Two of the supervisors will always vote against any MORGA annexations on the basis that those being annexed have no voice in the matter. Two other supervisors, including Diridon, will vote for the annexations provided there is no transfer of the taxes and one supervisor was supporting separate contracts with each citizen who is being annexed. The contract idea has since been deemed illegal and Diridon thinks that a majority of supervisors will go along with the annexations as long as there is no tax transfer.

Podgorsek noted that the Board approved the Los Gatos annexations which included a carry-over of bonded indebtedness.

DIRIDON SAID the board approved it because the tax was minimal — four cents per $100 property valuation — and because only one person complained about having to pay a tax that they did not vote for.

If Campbell were to transfer the bonded indebtedness it would cost each property owner who is annexed 19 cents per $100 property valuation.

"The problem the city of Campbell is having is we are the only city in the past 10 years that has had any bond issues," he said. "If we're going to carry this over then we need that 19 cents to service those areas (that are newly annexed)."

Diridon reemphasized that the county would be giving the tax money it collects for services over to the annexing cities to offset any extra cost.

Mayor Norm Paul asked Diridon what the board's vote would be on whether they want to be in the urban services business.

Diridon replied it would probably be unanimous that they don't want to supply services to residential areas.

"I want to know at what point the county is going to take the heat off the city and tell these people the truth," Paul asked.

Diridon said it was not a matter that the county doesn't want to give the service but that they can't.

"It's ridiculous to run a sweeper 10 miles to sweep a four-block area and then bring it back 10 miles," he said. "It's not good government."

PAUL SAID IT doesn't make sense for the supervisors to say it's all right to be taken into a city without voting on it but you don't have to pay your fair share for services the city provides.

Campbell has been attempting to annex 22 unincorporated islands surrounded by or in the influence of the city. Under the MORGA legislation the city has the power to annex islands that are 100 acres or less without taking a vote of the people. The council is getting closer to completing the annexations and must do so by Dec. 31, 1980 because that is when the legislation expires.

On Feb. 4 the council decided to move ahead with the annexations that would bring nearly 3,500 new residents into the city.

DURING THE meeting Councilmen Rusty Hammer and Ralph Doetsch expressed their opposition to passing bonded indebtedness on to those coming into the city. The council rejected a motion not to have the people pay the extra tax by a 3-2 vote. Hammer and Doetsch then also voted against the annexations.

Hammer explained he was only voting against the annexations because of the transfer of taxes but that he was in favor of the annexations themselves.

Drug paraphernalia ban found constitutional

By ANNE BRENNAN

SANTA CLARA County Superior Court Judge Albert De Marco has decided the drug paraphernalia ordinances in operation in Campbell and Mountain View are constitutional.

Tower Posters filed the suit last Dec. 14 against the two cities after ordinances prohibiting the sale of drug paraphernalia to minors went into effect.

Lance Wyle, associate lawyer to Campbell City Attorney Bob Dempster, said he was happy with the decision.

"It was our feeling that the defense side was favored," he said. "We felt that we had a good chance to win the case from the start."

Donald Brody, the lawyer representing Tower Posters, said a decision to appeal the case has not been made but should be by the end of this week.

"I don't agree with his (De Marco's) opinion," Brody said. "Obviously it's an incorrect decision because other judges around the state have decided the other way."

According to Wyle, De Marco discounted Tower Posters' five points of complaint, summing it up to say the law is not unconstitutional.

According to Wyle, Tower Posters' strongest argument was that the law was too vague, but De Marco said every law has to have some amount of vagueness, and as long as it cannot be defined or potentially defined in a way other than intended, it is constitutional.

Wyle added that De Marco did not think the stores were incriminating themselves when hanging a notice that minors are not allowed inside.

"The judge found this was not the case in that the store could put up a petition (where paraphernalia is being displayed) and exclude anyone under 18 years old," Wyle said.

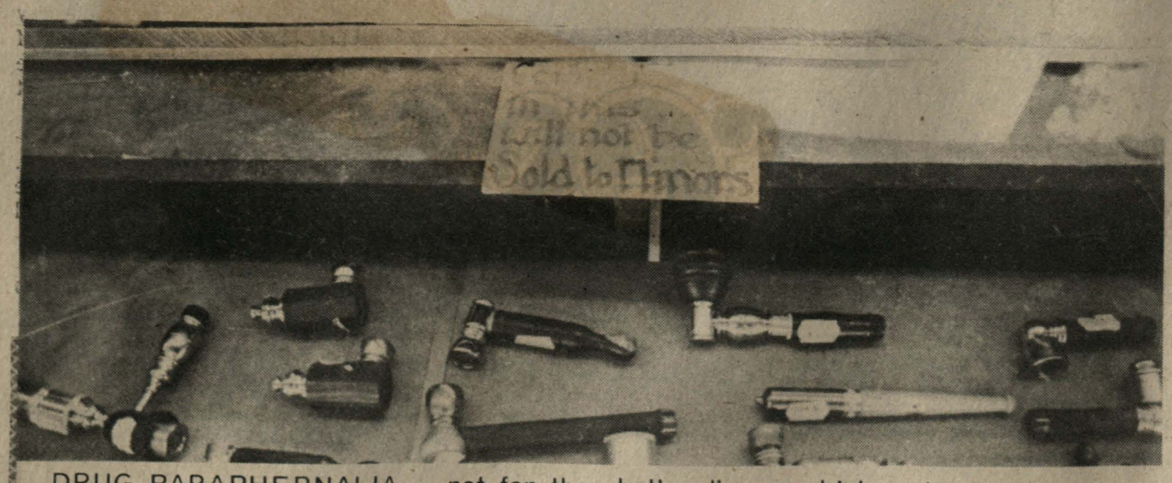
Tower Posters' argument that the cities are not able to have such an ordinance because there is already one at the state level was also struck down by the court.

Police Chief Don Burr, who was named as one of the plantiffs in the suit, was also not surprised by the decision.

"I expected that type of decision," he said. "I felt the law was constitutional and that it would be upheld."

Burr said the Tower Poster store in Campbell has been notified that the law was now going to be enforced and have 30 days with which to comply.

The law went into effect last November but was not being enforced because of the pending litigation.



DRUG PARAPHERNALIA — not for the consumption of minors or so says a Campbell ordinance which prohibits the sale and display of such items to minors.

THE picture on today's front page (Easter Bunny and friends) took a lot of patience on the part of PRESS photographer Amy Huntoon . . . and some luck, too.

The most difficult pictures to take are those of young children and animals. And, when you combine the two in a single picture, the odds are out of sight.

First, Andy's Pet Shop of San Jose graciously donated two "real live" white bunnies for the picture. We were only able to get one (at a time) in the picture. The other was always hopping off somewhere out of camera-range.

Second, the giant "bunny" from Campbell Community Services struck terror in the hearts of several of the youngsters who don't like seven and a half foot creatures . . . even if they are carrying a basket of chocolate eggs.

Third, the tots were all dressed in their Easter finery . . . but picture what happened after 15 minutes of the chocolate eggs melting in their hands . . . on their dresses and pants, etc.

And finally, the live bunnies had to have a clean-up crew work on them before they were returned to their quiet lives at the pet shop.

If you take another look at the front page picture you'll see some dark spots on the white fur of the bunny.

Petting bunnies with melted chocolate-covered hands makes for messy-looking rabbits.

Issue reopened

Rent gouging charged by localites

THE RENT control issue seems to be reopened as nearly 40 Campbell renters came before the council complaining of rent price gouging Monday night.

Michael Ray, a La Valencia Apartment tenant, told the council that rents have increased from 36 to 55 percent since last August.

L. M. Shafer, a tenant of the Hacienda Hamilton Apartments, told the council that they had just received a $30 increase when the complex was sold and the new owners are hiking the rents by $125 per month, too.

"The majority of us have lived there quite some time," he said. "All we got was 30 days notice and a lot of these people are living on fixed incomes and can't afford such an increase."

MAYOR NORM Paul told the crowd that the issue had been thoroughly discussed and a public hearing was held for people to come in and express their views on rent control. It was at this point the council decided against such an ordinance after a rent control task force, formed to study the issue, recommended against the law on the grounds that it lessened the number of rental units available and because Campbell rents seemed to be among the lowest in the Bay Area.

The council, after a public hearing Feb. 21, decided unanimously not to adopt such a measure.

The Council, last Monday, decided to reopen the issue by holding a meeting with the tenants to discuss some of their problems. Councilmen Rusty Hammer and Bill Podgorsek will meet with the group and then have another meeting with landlords and hopefully bring the two groups together to resolve the issue.

Paul said he hoped the tenants and landlords could come to a happy resolution such that a rent control measure would not be necessary.

"Philosophically we do not think this (rent control) would be the way to go," he said.

Podgorsek said the council did not totally discount rent control when it made the decision not to implement it last month.

"I said when we made our decision that we're going to put this on the back burner and bring it forth if necessary," he said.

PODGORSEK also noted that all Campbell apartment owners were asked to roll back rents voluntarily. He said that it was found some complex owners had raised rents because the city was looking into rent control.

Paul said there seems to be more to this issue than was originally brought out during the task force's study.

"There is much deeper concern than the council was led to believe," he said. "The door is never closed on any issue if the citizens want it opened."

NAMES AND addresses of 35 people were taken to insure tenants will be notified of the meetings. Those in the audience complained the city had not properly notified the public of the rent control hearings that were held in different parts of the city last October and November.

"We want to hear some new information," Paul told the audience. "We understand your problem and we want to hear some specifics. We will do our best to see that every grievance is heard."

Podgorsek and Hammer are to report back to council in 30 days.

Fraud, dishonest dealings

Authorities close Camden TV after state investigates owner

CAMDEN TV, 1969 Foxworthy Ave., has been ordered shut for 120 days, according to the Bureau of Electronic and Appliance Repair of the California Department of Consumer Affairs.

The disciplinary actions stemmed from a state investigation charging the owner, Dwight A. Leard, with fraud and dishonest dealing; failure to provide completed invoices and falsifying information on invoices in connection with T.V. repairs.

According to bureau chief Jack Hayes, a state agent was charged for a transistor which his set did not need and, in fact, was not even installed.

In another case, Camden TV charged the agent for six replaced tubes when only five were actually replaced.

Consumers can get information about their rights or register complaints against appliance repair dealers by contacting the bureau at 900 S St., Sacramento, Calif., or by calling 916-445-4751.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

What makes a finer lawn? A better quality grass, of course! Warren's A-34 BenSun Kentucky Bluegrass has been performance proven from coast to coast for over fifteen years.

In the most ambitious lawngrass research ever attempted eight universities doing lawngrass research, with partial funding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, studied forty three bluegrass strains for a period of five years at eleven locations in several states.

These bluegrasses were studied for quality, density, texture, color, disease, appearance and overall condition. Only A-34 BenSun received a top rating during all testing periods. Warren's A-20 Kentucky Bluegrass was rated second.

At Michigan State University, A-34 BenSun bluegrass was tested along with seventeen other bluegrass strains for "wear tolerance". Again, A-34 BenSun came out on top as being the only bluegrass to receive an excellent rating.

And that is not all! A-34 is the only bluegrass that will grow from full sunlight to deep shade (up to 65%) with satisfactory results. It is drought resistant, tolerates extreme heat or cold, thrives in all types of soil and if a short cut is desired, it can be mowed down to ½ inch.

A-34 BenSun bluegrass is available as seed, sod and sod plugs. It is the finest grass available for establishing a new lawn or should your old lawn look tired and worn out it can be brought back to life better than ever by overseeding with A-34 BenSun Sun & Shade Mixture Lawngrass Seed.

So . . . when it's a finer lawn you want . . . with less care and bother . . . then plant the highest rated bluegrass available, Warren's A-34 BenSun Bluegrass. You will be amazed how little a quality lawn will cost.

To help your new or restored A-34 BenSun lawn to develop and maintain its superior performance, we recommend the use of Warren's 10-8-4 Lawn Food. It is specially formulated to give any grass the proper nutrients for a healthy life.

See your landscaper or garden supply dealer and insist on Warren's A-34 BenSun Kentucky Bluegrass.

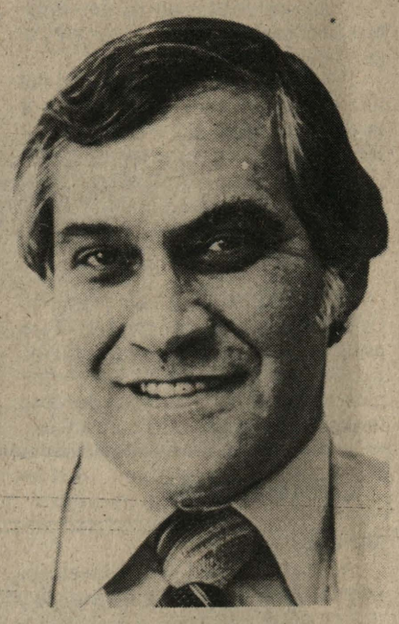
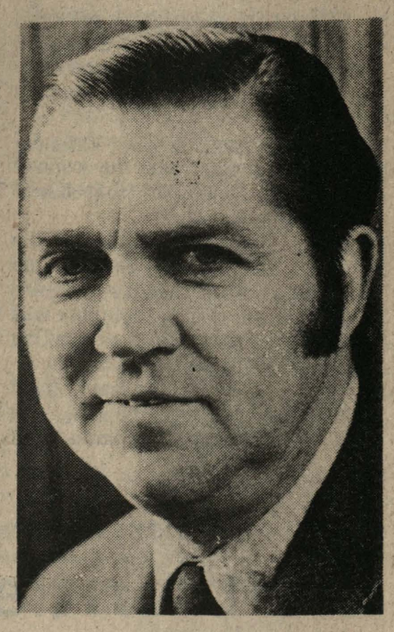
Chamber of Commerce forum

Council hopefuls run on similar platforms

Rusty Hammer



Lee Vale



Norm Paul

By ANNE HOUGHTELING

WHEN ASKED last week at a Campbell Chamber of Commerce luncheon if they favored creation of a new, countywide government, all four City Council candidates responded in unison with firm "noes."

Almost identical agreement was evident as the candidates on Campbell's April 8 ballot fielded other prepared questions at the March 19 chamber forum.

In attendance were incumbents Norm Paul, Rusty Hammer and Dean Chamberlin and challenger Lee Vale. The four are vying for three council seats.

One housing, none of the candidates advocated increasing density.

"Campbell (already) has more housing than jobs," said Hammer. "Basically, the city is developed out."

Densities, said Vale, should be "left as they are now."

WHILE saying that there might be some areas in which the city could respond to housing needs with changes in zoning, Paul didn't specify, saying, "For me to say this property should be this (zoning) or that, would be to preempt the planning process."

Revenue-raising will be a tough task if Proposition 9, or "Jarvis II," gets voter approval, the candidates concurred.

One possible source of money to keep things going would be an increase in fees for city services, Chamberlin said.

"But," he admitted, "you can only increase charges so much . . . it's a limited source of revenue." One other possibility would be setting up new assessment districts, he said.

FORMING non-profit agencies to help support city services "might be one way to go," suggested Paul.

"But," he added, "with the (tax-cutting) mood of the people, it's rather facetious to talk about raising additional money without first defining needs."

Politicians, said Vale, "have a clear mandate from the people: No more taxes."

Challenger Vale broke ranks with the incumbents on two items: location of the new fire station and the climate the city has created for small business.

The new location, at the corner of Duncanville Court and Union Avenue, is too congested with traffic to make a good site for the station headquarters, Vale said.

And, he contended, "the current City Council has been fairly unresponsive to small businessmen because not all are (Campbell) voters."

About 70 chamber members attended the forum.

Storm damage relief

Nearly 150 Santa Clara County residents suffered a total of $1,422,000 in storm damages to their homes, businesses and personal property in recent weeks, according to County Executive William Siegel.

Siegel has requested Governor Jerry Brown and the State Office of Emergency Services to seek federal aid for those who have suffered the loss.

If the severity of damage merits governmental assistance, aid can be requested from the Federal Emergency Management and the Small Business Administration for low-interest loans.

The county Office of Emergency Services reports that 143 reports of damage were reported between Jan. 13 and March 6. It is requesting any other residents who have suffered damages because of recent weather conditions to call the office at 299-3751.

THERE'S VIRTUALLY no way of estimating the value of an Olympic gold medal.

Striking Olympic gold can mean more emotionally to one athlete than another and, depending on what an athlete does after gaining such exposure, it can mean more monetarily to one than another.

But one thing is for sure — gold medals don't come cheap. And it's got nothing to do with the rising cost of gold on the common market!

Americans pay dearly just for the right to represent their country in the Olympic Games. They struggle for years to make ends meet just to gain the right to compete.

Bruce Jenner knows what it's like. Just about six years ago he was struggling to make ends meet so that he could go for the gold in an Olympic decathlon.

He accomplished just that — he became the "greatest athlete in the world" with his Olympic win and since has cashed in on the gold in many different markets.

But he hasn't forgotten those years of struggling and the help he received along the way. And neither has the American Athletes Development Foundation.

JENNER DOES HIS part to pay back the area for its support each April by lending his name and his time to the prestigious local track meet, the "Jenner Classic."

The meet will be held on Saturday, April 12 (the high school events to be held a day earlier), at San Jose City College and Jenner will be on hand for the event. And that's where the American Athletes Development Foundation enters the picture.

The newly formed Foundation will host the first annual World Class Athletes Banquet on Friday, April 11, a night before the meet, in an effort to raise funds to help support local world class athletes during their training.

The group, inspired by a cash donation from the Los Gatos Lions Club to Jenner during his training prior to the 1976 Olympics, raises funds that go directly to the athletes to help defer the high costs they incur traveling and training to reach world class status.

"This is a great thing to see happening in American sports," said Ed Burke, an Olympic hammer thrower and also a member of the AADF Administrative Staff. "These guys got together and said, 'let's set up a foundation to help athletes like the Lions helped Jenner'."

"AND THE MONEY they raise is for athletes in all sports, not just track," he added.

Burke is joined on the Administrative Staff by former Olympic coaches Bert Bonnano and Bud Winter, former Pan-Am Games gold medalist Eli Primrose, Mark DiDuca, Hal Hobson, Bill Stephens and Creaghe Gordon.

"Our goal is to prepare tomorrow's athletes today," said Hobson regarding the Foundation's function. "We're planning for Los Angeles right now and no one else is. We expect a lot of the money we're raising now will be used for 1984."

"No one has even dared such a thing before," he added. "But we can't wait until the last minute."

And Winter, a former Olympic track coach and for 30 years the San Jose State University coach, echoed that same concern.

"UNFORTUNATELY, the sun soon goes down on American Olympic enthusiasm," said Winter. "Between Olympics, too often apathy sets in. When the next Olympics comes around, we wait almost to the last minute. Then we quickly assembly our talented athletes, wave a few flags and send them off to beat the Russians!"

The Foundation wants to put an end to that apathy and try to help the American amateur athletes, for a change. Because amateur athletes, as a group, certainly don't get much help in this country!

The dinner is the first step in that drive to raise money for America's finest.

There will be 50 tables in the Marriott Hotel's Grand Ballroom in Santa Clara and a world class athlete will be seated at each one. The $50 per plate dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. after no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. An entire table can be purchased for $500. Tickets and tables are limited and will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. For information call Primrose at 244-2425.

Jenner will be the keynote speaker at the dinner a night before hosting the meet named in his honor at the San Jose City College track where he trained so hard prior to the 1976 Games.

"THIS WILL probably be the best track and field meet on the West Coast in years," said Burke of the Jenner Classic.

Many world class athletes will be in the area for the meet, and most will be in attendance the night before at the fund-raising dinner.

It's a dedicated group of people who would work so hard to help athletes train for an event that may not even be available to them.

Should the Americans boycott the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, though, that would just be money in the bank for other world-level competition and the 1984 Games.

But it's a shame that money might not be able to be put to good use right away because of the proposed boycott.

It's almost like the American athletes, in some strange way, are being punished just because the Soviets decided to invade Afghanistan!

The Winter Olympics came off without a hitch — we didn't forbid the Soviets entry there.

But our summer athletes, without any help from the government, have worked hard, in the true American tradition, to represent their country and now will be refused that right.

It just doesn't seem fair that our athletes have to give up so much, when they're probably still sipping Vodka on Capital Hill!

SF opens vs. Pads

THE SAN Francisco Giants will open their 1980 National League baseball schedule Thursday, April 10 on the road against the San Diego Padres.

Campbell wins opener

Fleury's double spoils Melrose's no-hit bid

IT'S IMPORTANT for a pitcher to find his groove early in the season if he expects to be a consistent winner. And apparently Campbell high school's Jeff Melrose has found that groove.

The Buccaneers' hard throwing lefthander registered his second consecutive shut-out Monday afternoon, hurling Campbell to a 4-0 win over the Prospect Panthers in their West Valley Athletic League season opener.

Melrose, coming off of a non-league shut-out of Wilcox, allowed only a first inning double to the Panthers' Tim Fleury and struck out eight while raising his record to 2-0. He did struggle with his control a bit, however, issuing eight walks.

"The ump was being really tight with his (Melrose's) curveball," remarked Campbell head coach Gordon Huntze. "I thought he was hitting the corners with a lot of his pitches, but he (the umpire) wasn' giving him anything."

"Give Melrose credit," added Prospect head coach Bob Osborne. "He pitched a good game."

But Osborne had a complaint about the homeplate umpire, also.

OSBORNE'S complaint stemmed from a close play at the plate in the very first inning, a play Osborne felt "changed the complexion of the game."

With Terry Kampe on first following the first of Melrose's eight walks, Fleury belted a line drive double. Kampe attempted to score on the blast, but was called out on a bang-bang play at the plate.

"He was safe," insisted Osborne. "The catcher dropped the ball, but the ump was so busy making this big, dramatic out call that he didn't see him drop it. When he turned around and saw the ball on the ground he said he (the catcher) had held it long enough."

Although he was upset by the call, Osborne didn't want to take anything away from the Bucs.

"We made a few mistakes and they didn't," Osborne noted. "They deserved to win."

The Bucs decided the game, for all intents and purposes, with two runs in the first inning.

Rick Valdez opened the inning with a walk and went all the way to third when John Walsh's bunt was thrown away at first.

A sacrifice fly by Melrose plated Valdez and a passed ball scored Walsh.

THE BUCCANEERS picked up two more runs in the fifth. Walsh led-off with a single, stole second and scored on Rich Alvarez' base hit. Alvarez then stole second and rode home on Melrose's single.

The Bucs were coming off of an 8-4 non-league loss to the Los Altos Knights six days earlier.

The Knights scored all eight of their runs in the fourth inning off of starter Alvarez and reliever Jeff Casteel.

The Bucs had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on a run scoring single by Alvarez.

They picked up two more runs in the bottom of the fourth when Casteel's two out single scored Melrose, who had doubled, and Rob Aguilar, who had singled.

Campbell's final run came in the seventh when Walsh walked, stole second and scored on Melrose's base hit.

Prospect, meanwhile, was coming off of a pair of non-league victories that evened the Panthers' pre-season record at 3-3.

The Panthers belted San Carlos 9-2 last week. Ken Galloway, who suffered the loss to Campbell, scattered seven hits and struck out nine to record the win.

Fleury and Chuck Zelanis collected two hits apiece to pace the Panthers at the plate.

PROSPECT then opened its stay in the Easter Lions Tournament with a 6-3 victory over the highly regarded Yerba Buena Warriors of the Mt. Hamilton Athletic League.

Jim Harrigan posted the win, scattering eight hits and two walks. He struck out four.

Dave Johnson drilled two triples and drove in two runs to spark the Warriors at the plate.

Fleury contributed two hits and three RBI's and Eric Crawford chipped in with a double and a single.

In other WVAL openers Monday, Westmont held on to nudge Camden 6-4, Blackford outslugged Leigh 12-11, and Los Gatos nipped Del Mar 3-2.

Bill Ebert, who hurled five strong innings to pick-up the win, paced Westmont's six-hit attack against Camden with a home run and a triple.

In frosh-soph action Monday, Campbell crushed Prospect 11-2 behind the hitting and pitching of Joray Marrujo.

Marrujo, who flipped a four-hitter and struck out nine while recording the complete game victory, ripped two hits and scored three runs.

John Murphy backed Marrujo's pitching with a triple, two singles and four RBI's. Scott Freear chipped in with a pair of RBI's.

Lowrey finds best of both worlds in win

OFF TO UTAH — Four members of the Santa Clara Valley Hockey Association will take off for salt Lake City, Utah, this week as members of the Northern California AAA Bantam team to compete in the Regional tournament. Santa Clara ice hockey players who won berths on the all-star team include Rick Pitta of San Jose (in front) and (back row, l-r) Andy Buchanan of Campbell, Bobby Ringo of Mountain View and John Blue of San Jose. Pitta and Buchanan were each members of the Santa Clara AA Midget team this past season and Blue and Ringo were each members of the AA Bantam team.

PARENTS ARE ALWAYS trying to drill into their children that it's better to give than receive.

But David Lowrey of the Santa Clara Valley Hockey Association's AA Mites found the best of both worlds recently in the Northern California Junior Hockey Association play-offs.

Lowrey "received" from his teammates and "gave" to the Tri-Valley Mites in the form of three goals to lead the locals to a 7-1 victory in the second and final game of the play-offs' first round.

Lowrey was on the receiving end of three assists and promptly turned them into Santa Clara goals to pace the locals to the win that will send them into the second round of the NorCal play-offs.

Santa Clara will now face Stockton in a best two-out-of-three play-off series to determine Northern California's representative for the state championships to be held on April 19 and 20 in Fresno.

Lowrey spearheaded the Mite offense in the win over Tri-Valley with his three goals and he also "gave" away an assist.

Mike Newman and Rich Wisneski joined Lowrey in the spirit of giving and receiving in the game. Newman had two goals and two assists in the victory and Wisneski had one goal and one assist.

RICH MATTHEWS also scored a goal in the victory and Dan Mark gave away an assist. Brian Bull and Dean Severson also dished off assists for the Mites.

Santa Clara outshot Tri-Valley 37-23 in the game and Joey Harbold was nearly flawless in the cage for the winners. Harbold turned back 22 enemy shots before Tri-Valley finally snuck a goal past him with just 10 seconds left to play.

The AA Midgets posted a play-off victory the same day at Eastridge, knocking off Sun Valley 8-6.

A day earlier, the AA Pee Wees tied Santa Rosa 1-1 on the SR ice in a first round play-off game. Rich MacLeod scored the lone goal for Santa Clara off of assists from Regan Hopp and Jason Mawae in the game. The two teams each fired 31 shots at the opposing goals.

While Santa Clara AA teams battle in local play-off action, the Northern California AAA Bantam team, including four Santa Clara players, will head to Salt Lake City, Utah, for regional tournament action.

John Blue, Andy Buchanan, Rick Pitta and Bob Ringo will represent Santa Clara on the team that will leave Thursday for the tournament that will run Friday through Sunday, March 28-30.

The winner of that tournament will advance to the National tournament set for April 11-13 in Seattle, Washington.

WVAT slates sign-ups

THE WEST Valley Aquatic Team, a competitive swim club for youngsters six years old through high school age, will hold try-outs Wednesday, March 26, and Thursday, March 27, at West Valley College.

Try-outs will be from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the West Valley pool both nights.

Youngsters who join the WVAT this week will receive free competitive swim lessons through April 3.

A youngster unable to try-out either Wednesday or Thursday can try-out during any of the WVAT's regular practice sessions at WVC. The WVAT practices from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. each Monday, Thursday and Friday; and from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. each Tuesday and Wednesday.

Tap's Termites powers way to tournament title

AFTER ITS recent performance in the Santa Clara Valley Athletic Association's pre-season softball tournament, Tap's Termites of Campbell should change it's name to something a little more appropriate — because "tap" certainly doesn't describe the way that team hits a softball!

Tap's Termites didn't just tap the softball on its way to the SCVAA's tourney title, those sluggers crushed the ball to win seven straight games in the early season event.

Tap's won five in a row before defeating Century 21 1st Realty of San Jose 12-0 and 3-1 to clinch the crown in the 34 team, double-elimination tournament.

Bob Green, Rick Koch and Darrel Hill each powered solo homeruns in the third inning of the title game to carry Tap's to the championship victory.

Century 21 rallied for a run in the seventh and had the bases loaded before Steve Santos bounced out to the pitcher to end the game.

TAP'S OPENED the tournament with a close 4-3 win over the Bad Company of Santa Clara and won four more before beating Century 21 12-0 to send the San Jose team into the loser's bracket. Century 21 had also won five straight at that point.

Century 21 then defeated Interstate Battery of Milpitas 5-2 to get another shot at Tap's, but lost 3-1.

Interstate Battery had to settle for third after the loss to Century 21. Battery had knocked off Round Table Pizza of Milpitas 9-4 to secure no worse than a third place finish. Round Table ended up fourth.

The Clowns and the Boozers of San Jose shared fifth place in the tournament and Gino's Pizza and the Hitmen of San Jose tied for sixth. The Firemen of San Jose and Bad News of Fremont shared seventh place.

The SCVAA is currently accepting applications from teams interested in playing in its summer softball league. For information call 258-9273, 294-5814, 274-6198 or 294-0287.

Harbaugh accepts Cardinal grid post

JACK Harbaugh, defensive back coach for the University of Michigan for the past seven years, has accepted the defensive coordinator position at Stanford, Cardinal head football coach Paul Wiggin announced recently.

Harbaugh, 40, had been involved in three straight Rose Bowl appearances by the Wolverines from 1977 through 1979, and contributed to Michigan's high national defensive rankings in recent years. The Wolverines, who played in the 1979 Gator Bowl, ranked 12th in NCAA defense last year.

Harbaugh, who previously served as defensive backs coach at Iowa (1971-72), Bowling Green (1968-70) and Morehead State (1967) in the college ranks, will begin work Monday in preparation for spring football practice (Apr. 5 to May 10).

As an athlete, Harbaugh was an all-state football and baseball player at Crestline High.

No public hearing held - Ainsley plan

Neighborhood group files suit against city

By ANNE HOUGHTELING

SAVE OUR Neighborhood filed suit March 17, against the City of San Jose alleging no proper public hearing was held on a developer's plans to build on the Ainsley property.

In December, Broadmoor Homes won San Jose City Council approval for its subdivision map. Broadmoor plans to build about 700 condominiums on the 82-acre Ainsley property on Bascom Avenue between Leigh and Hamilton Avenues.

Save Our Neighborhood, a coalition of neighborhood groups, filed suit because the public hearing held in December "was a sham," group spokesperson Nancy Ianni charged last week.

The hearing was held Dec. 18 in response to Broadmoor's appeal of its own subdivision map. According to the San Jose Planning Department, the developer suspected the map would be appealed and initiated the appeal itself to speed up the development process.

But Ianni cited the developer's appeal as the chief among several "procedural irregularities" that Save Our Neighborhood charges marked the permit process.

Because the appeal was speeded up, Save Our Neighborhood did not have a chance to rally opposition, several group members said at the time of the hearing.

Though noting Broadmoor's appeal was unusual, San Jose city attorney in December said the process was legal.

Save Our Neighborhood has objected to the 700-unit development on grounds that it would drastically increase traffic congestion in San Jose and Campbell.

Last week, though, Ianni said the suit "was not filed to stop developers, but to have a better development."

No court date has been set.

No 'open space' zoning for school sites

By ANNE BRENNAN

THE CAMPBELL City Council decided not to place a blanket open space zoning on eight schools in the city that were given funds with which to make improvements.

The unanimous council approval goes against an earlier Planning Commission recommendation that the zoning be placed on the schools to protect the open space.

Of the eight schools only one, San Tomas School, is closed and none of the others are scheduled for closure at this time, according to Campbell Unified School District Trustee Jack Wade.

He added that the district would like to try and keep all surplus school sites instead of selling them, so that the open space could be controlled and left open and available for public use.

The council decision did not shut the door on open space zoning, which would allow for development of only 20 percent of the property if it were sold for development, as it postponed the zoning decision until the school is declared surplus.

"IT'S MY feeling that the school board has been very up front about its intentions," Mayor Nrm Paul said. "The school board feels comfortable that this (zoning) is not necessary and we should wait until the disposition of each school is decided. I have no problem with that."

The other seven schools that were being considered for open space zoning included Rolling Hills Junior High, Forest Hill, Capri, Hazelwood, Rosemary, Dover and Coventry.

Each school received $10,000 mainly for improvements to the open space portions of the facilities after a parks bond was passed by Campbell voters about 12 years ago.

According to Phil Stafford of the Campbell Planning Department, the proposed zoning was an attempt to preserve open space in accordance with state law. He said the state requires each city to have an open space element to its general plan and that it be put into action. The city currently has three categories of land that is going to be preserved. They include existing open space such as parks, public school sites with public parks and all other school, church and private land with open space.

COUNCILMAN Dean Chamberlin said that when the bond money was given to the schools it was with the understanding that they have no obligation to the city at a later date.

"This was not in any way to affect the ownership of the sites," he said. "This (zoning) actually would affect not only the small area (of the school we are trying to preserve) but also the whole school."

The district had expressed concern in the past that the restrictive open space zoning would cause the property valuation to go down.

Councilman Rusty Hammer noted that the city still exercises some control because the schools are now zoned for public facilities and only the council can change that.

"The city does have the ultimate power to say how it (the school sites) will be used, through its zoning powers," Hammer said.

Limit on free trash pick-up is asked for

By PAT SAFFORD

THE SEMI-ANNUAL free trash pick-up day by Green Valley Disposal Company is set for May 2. But the refuse company wants some changes made before May rolls around.

According to Richard Amerio, Green Valley office manager, the company has been having a problem with a "small number" of its Campbell customers; they're saving their accumulated refuse for the twice a year free pick-ups.

Amerio has asked the Campbell City Council for permission to set a limit on the amount of trash each customer can set out for pick-up during the clean-up drive; one cubic yard . . equal to size and a half standard 32-gallon size containers.

The council Monday night referred the request to city staff for a report. The request will come back before the council at the April 14 meeting.

Green Valley already has some other questions to be answered about its service before the June, 1981 10-year contract period expires.

SPECIFICALLY, LOCAL customers want to know why Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) which services San Jose among other cities, can offer unlimited weekly refuse collection for a little more than $4 a month.

Green Valley charges $3 monthly for one can service with $1.95 for each additional garbage can. For three can service, what BFI used to offer to all San Jose customers for less than $4 a month, that works out to $6.90 a month.

Last year the four West Valley cities who contract with Green Valley, Campbell, Saratoga, Los Gatos and Monte Sereno, authorized a $20,000 study to look into the operations, services and rate structure of Green Valley.

A preliminary report on the first findings of that study, company operations, came before a committee of the city managers last week. They reviewed it, suggested a few changes and the report will be revised and sent on to city officials later this month.

The complete study may take as long as two months to complete, Tara Adams, assistant to the Campbell City Manager, said Monday.

MEANWHILE, Green Valley is concerned with those few Campbell customers who take the semi-annual clean-up campaign too literally.

"When the clean up arrives, an enormous amount of items are placed out," said Amerio in his letter to the City Council. "It is not unusual to find an accumulation of between two and a half and three cubic yards, with the worst case being between 18 to 21 cubic yards (the equivalent of more than 100-garbage cans).

"With the very high cost of labor and the daily rising costs of energy and equipment, we look to you to assist us in providing an excellent service at as low a cost as possible," Amerio told the council.

Challenger criticized for council ballot statement

By PAT SAFFORD

IN THE CAMPBELL City Council race, notable for its lack of clear cut issues, one dispute has come up. It involves the lone contender for the three council seats that come before voters April 8.

Two incumbents, running for their third terms, have criticized the ballot statement of challenger Lee Vale, a 42-year-old businessman involved in real estate and property management.

Vale cites his interest and involvement in "the decision making process of our local government" and states he's been involved in several "special task forces" as well as working with "all our city staff and local agencies."

The problem with those statements is that Vale, a newcomer to the city, has never been appointed to any of the dozens of committees and task forces set up over the years to tackle city issues and problems.

Mayor Paul, seeking his third term on the council, says he feels Vale's statement is wrong . . . and misleading.

Vice Mayor Rusty Hammer, also seeking a third term, said he was "astonished" when he read Vale's statement.

THE CHALLENGERR, who explained "I was not trying to deceive the voters," discussed his ballot statement last week.

"I was involved in the formation of the bond issue for Campbell sewer district 4 (Sanitary District 4) and I worked actively to sell the $7.5 million in bonds. . . in 1965, I think it was," Vale said.

For the last "couple of years" he's been attending council and Planning Commission meetings, Vale added, and he attended 5 or 6 metings of the San Tomas Task Force before he moved to his Campbell home on Rue Montague.

His contact with city staff came, Vale Says, when he worked on two developments in the city, a townhouse on Rincon Avenue (now completed) and a single family home development in the Hacienda Avenue area.

Developers usually confer with planning and building department staff, and sometimes with public works, to get their projects underway, as well as appear before the Planning Commission and City Council.

Vale said the criticism of his ballot statement wasn't a surprise. Earlier last week he'd already received a call from a local civic leader, who wanted to know about his ballot statement. Vale says he feels he successfully explained his position.

The challenger says he is living within ghe city limits for about one and a half years "this time." Before that he lived for 9 years on Theresa Avenye (in the unincorporated county area) and prior to that lived just off San Tomas Aquino Road ("on the San Jose side").

"That's why I haven't been as active in local government as I'd like to have been," Vale said.

If elected to the City Council, he plans to change all that.

Aerodynamic car gets 68 miles per gallon

By SEAN WHALEY

WHAT HAS THREE wheels, weighs 1,100 pounds, gets up to 68 miles a gallon and can travel 900 miles on one tank of gas?

Why, the TriVette of course.

The TriVette is the invention of Robert Keyes, who, during the Arab oil embargo of 1973, began to think that America might need a new type of vehicle that could use fuel more efficiently.

The result was the TriVette, a fiberglass enclosed vehicle with seating for two, a Triumph four-cylinder engine, standard transmission and standard controls.

"The vehicle has a lot more head room and a lot more leg room than a Corvette," Keyes said. "It corners faster and handles better too."

Keyes' vehicle can get such good mileage because of its lightness and aerodynamics. It has tandem seating instead of conventional seating which makes the vehicle more streamlined.

"CONVENTIONAL automobile producers can never achieve the aerodynamics we do because they insist on seating side-by-side," Keyes said.

Keyes hand built 24 of the vehicles before shutting down production in November of 1978.

"I finally decided there was no point in continuing production of the vehicle as long as Congress was trying to stall the problem.

"The effort couldn't be justified as long as the price of petroleum was kept artificially low with price controls.

"I figured the issue would come up again and in March of 1979, it did."

Now it appears as if the government is interested, and is studying the feasibility of converting the engine to use methanol and mass producing the vehicle, according to Keyes.

The two major problems Keyes had to overcome when first designing the vehicle were weight and aerodynamic drag.

The weight was reduced through the use of the fiberglass body.

IN ORDER TO streamline and thus reduce the vehicle's drag, the cross section had to be reduced, Keyes said.

The cross section is the portion of the car that is visible looking at it straight on. Keyes used as an example the typical passenger car, which stands four feet tall and is seven feet wide. The result is 28 square feet of cross section. The TriVette has 12 square feet of cross section.

"The primary reason we could reduce it by that much is because the vehicle has tandem seating," Keyes said.

"We do not intend to replace the standard four or five passenger vehicle, Keyes said.

The TriVette is specifically designed for one occupant to be fully enclosed and comfortable, but with extreme efficiency. It does have room for a second occupant on an occasional basis.

Keyes cited a study done by the Southern California Automobile Association during the 1973 embargo which showed that 93 percent of the vehicles on the freeway had one occupant.

THAT IS A 180-POUND occupant in an average weighted vehicle of 4,500 pounds with five empty seats, Keyes said.

"The TriVette wouldn't be practical for a one-car family," he said.

As a second car for commuting, however, it would be ideal. "It is exactly what the commuter needs — a more specialized vehicle."

Keyes said he usually drives his TriVette to work from south San Jose to Sunnyvale every day. He has to fill up the 15-gallon tank every three to four weeks.

On his 30-mile round trip, Keyes uses about two thirds of a gallon. The vehicle gets about 35 miles per gallon in the city.

Keyes, an employee of Itek Corp. in its Applied Technology Division, said the federal government appears to be interested in the vehicle.

"We have had a very positive response through all levels of the bureaucracy," Keyes said. "Everyone seems to be in a 'go' mode.

"We are now in the planning stage of completely redesigning the vehicle to make it producible at higher quantity and lower cost."

Originally, in 1975, the vehicles were sold to private individuals for $3,600.

The last vehicle sold in the latter part of 1978 was priced at $5,600. "In mass production," Keyes said, "we could sell it for under $4,000."

The vehicles were built in Southern California and sent all over the United States.

"Two went to Hawaii, and a large number went to the Northeast and Midwest, where motorcycles can be used only a few months out of the year," Keyes said.

"A number of customers bought more than one, sight unseen."

KEYES IS DESIGNING the vehicle to run on methanol, ethanol or propane.

He is now in the process of converting his own TriVette to run on methanol to see how well it performs.

TriVette

Using gasoline, a TriVette with its 58 horsepower engine can travel at top speeds of 110 miles per hour, go from zero to 60 mph in nine seconds and get 68 miles per gallon at 55 mph.

When Keyes was asked if the owners of the TriVettes were happy with their purchases, he replied: "You won't find a used one for sale."

Various federal bodies are looking at Keyes' vehicle, including President Carter's staff, the National Science Foundation, the Department of Energy, the Department of Transportation and the Senate Energy Commission.

Keyes said he is interested in working with other firms in the area to develop the capabilities of mass production, such as recreational vehicle manufacturers, auto dealers and aerospace firms.

"We're going to make sure the government is aware of it (the TriVette)," Keyes said.

"If we don't do something with it, we'll end up buying it from the Japanese."

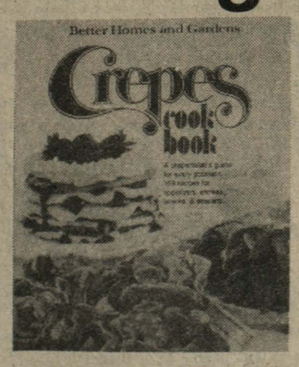
You don't have to go out to enjoy crepes

With these recipes from Better Homes and Gardens ® Crepes Cook Book, ©, you don't have to go to an elegant restaurant for crepes. Try these two examples, one main course, one dessert, and you'll be a firm believer in homemade crepes.

Basic Main Dish Crepes

1 cup all-purpose flour
1½ cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon cooking oil
¼ teaspoon salt

In a bowl combine flour, milk, eggs, oil, and salt; beat with a rotary beater until blended. Heat a lightly greased 6-inch skillet. Remove from heat; spoon in about 2 tablespoons batter. Lift and tilt skillet to spread batter evenly. Return to heat; brown on one side only. (Or cook on inverted crepe pan, see page 8). To remove, invert pan over paper toweling; remove crepe. Repeat with remaining batter to make 16 to 18 crepes, greasing skillet occasionally.



Chicken 'n' Broccoli Crepes

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
Dash salt
3 cups milk
½ cup shredded sharp American cheese (2 ounces)
¼ cup dry white wine
1 2½-ounce jar sliced mushrooms, drained
1 10-ounce package frozen chipped broccoli
2 cups finely chopped cooked chicken
12 Basic Main Dish Crepes

For sauce: In a medium saucepan melt butter. Blend in flour and salt. Add milk all at once. Cook, stirring constantly, till thickened and bubbly. Stir in cheese and wine till cheese melts. Remove ½ cup of the sauce; set aside. Stir mushrooms into remaining sauce.

For filling: Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain. Combine drained broccoli, chicken and the ½-cup reserved sauce.

To assemble: Spread ¼ cup filling over unbrowned side of crepe, leaving ¼-inch rim around edge. Roll up crepe. Place seam side down in skillet or chafing dish. Repeat with remaining crepes. Drizzle sauce over crepes. Cook, covered, over low heat till bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Spiced Coffee Crepes Brulot

2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
4 whole cloves
¼ teaspoon flinely shredded lemon peel
Chopped nuts (optional)

For filling: Beat cream cheese with powdered sugar, milk, and orange peel till smooth. Do not chill.

To assemble: Spread some of the cream cheese filling over unbrowned side of crepe, leaving ¼-inch rim around edge. Roll up crepe as for jelly roll. Repeat with remaining crepes.

For sauce: In saucepan mix together the granulated sugar and cornstarch. Stir in cold coffee. Cook and stir over medium heat till thickened and bubbly; keep warm. In skillet or chafing dish combine brandy, cinnamon, cloves, and lemon peel; heat over low heat just till hot. Ignite brandy mixture. When flame dies, stir in the coffee mixture. Remove cinnamon and cloves; discard. Arrange the filled crepes in coffee sauce; heat through, about 5 minutes, spooning sauce over crepes. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Remember the menu while forgetting the food?

On the Scene

ENTERTAINMENT • DINING • TRAVEL

With Bea Rene'

Eye-boggling menus make dining a tedious "affair" . . .

Have you ever entered a restaurant to be seated at a lovely table, then handed an overwhelming menu that made the repast a secondary maneuver? There are menus and there are menus . . . here are just a few of their idiosyncracies . . .

Billboards: What about the menu that is offered by a waiter that completely hides your dinner companion when opened? Some restaurants feel this is a mark of distinction, I presume. For certain, you will always remember the menu, if not the food. Really now, I don't think a huge menu is that impressive.

Translations: What about the menu that is written in a foreign language and French or Spanish just ISN'T your long suit? Here's just a few items that you may find: Noisettes d' Agneau, Parisienne, (only Filet of Lamb with herbs and garlic butter) . . . Medaillon Bearnaise (Two Petit Filet Mignons with Bearnaise) . . . Entrecote Marchand de vin (New York steak with marrow, shallots, red wine sauce) . . . Escalopes de Veau (Filet of Veal) . . . Canard a l'orange Flambe' (Duckling with orange sauce).

Perhaps you can understand the French, but what about Spanish-Mexican? Almejas Marinera (Clams in white wine with garlic, onion, tomatoes and sauce — featured at Don Quixote) . . . Chimichanga (One flour tortilla filled with pork or beef, deep fried and topped with sour cream and guacamole) . . . Chilis Rellenos (Stuffed Peppers) . . Chile Verde Con Puerco (Lean Pork in green chili sauce).

In a Chinese restaurant: Do you know that Rumaki is Chicken Liver rolled in Bacon strip, quick-fried? Hot and Sour Soup (Chicken Broth, green peas, shrimps, diced ham, bamboo shoots. Served with sizzling morsels of golden fried rice-crust) . . . Dim Sum (Chinese steamed dumplings stuffed with meat or seafood, sweet paste or preserves) served at Ruby King.

Miscellaneous: Wiener Schnitzel (Austrian breaded veal cutlets) . . . Vitello Tonnato (Italian dish of cold braised veal with a tuna sauce) . . . Scones (Scottish-English. Baking soda buns, served at breakfast and tea — with or without fruit) . . . Seb Chatni (East Indian — apple chutney) . . . Seeg (Moroccan. Slow cooked beef stew with chickpeas, saffron, ginger) . . .

Marathon-long Menus: I give the prize for long menus to the T.G.I.Friday restaurant. After a Sunday shopping spree at Bullock's, stopped by this convenient restaurant to enjoy an early dinner. I was seated very hospitably at a small table (big enough for only one) nestled beside a huge donkey (or was it a goat?). Took a moment to decide whether to sit next to the head or the other end (chose the tail end with a view of the doorway). I was then presented with this notebook of almost illegibly hand written pages, commencing with wines, leading in to snacks and appetizers. (We are now on page 5.) Page 6 starts with salads and quiches, leading on to omelettes and eggs.

I had almost decided upon a Crabmeat Artichoke Omelette on Page 7, when I turned the page and was astounded to read two pages of hamburgers. I then changed my mind — decided on a Denver Burger. But guess what? Page 10 started with some delicious steaks and chicken dishes. And page 11 competed by listing seven seafood and combination dishes. I succumbed to the Shrimp Scampi, $7.95. It was delicious — jumbo fantail shrimp, butterflied, sauteed in garlic butter with parsley on fettuccini. This was served with grilled tomato slices (with cheese) and fried zucchini — the best part. Would you believe I almost changed my mind, but didn't, when I turned the page to find five more menu pages — 16 pages in all. There were specialties, sandwiches, desserts and dessert drinks. The food is definitely good at T.G.I.Friday's. I even made a mental note to bring a youngster who will be visiting soon to celebrate his birthday — the crew sings the noisiest and most robust "Happy Birthday" song I've ever heard, and it's very impressive to the young ones. They have a Kid's Burger Platter for $2.25 and a Kid's Hot Dog Platter for $1.95. So I'm all set.

On a happy note, I'll close this menu .....

OVER THE SKILLET: I enjoyed a lovely dinner at the Marquis restaurant, Kiely at El Camino. Beautiful ambiance, impeccable service and Chef Rene's excellent cuisine make this worth a visit . . . A popular Sunday Champagne Brunch is at the attractive Gunga Din's at the Sunnyvale Hilton Inn — a popular Silicon Valley lunch spot . . . San Jose now has it's own Jazz center in the De Anza Hotel, second floor, where you'll find Ves Nolan's new "The Jazz Musician." Top jazz artists w-Cal Tjader appearing Thurs. Mar. 27 — 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. shows. Don't miss this . . . Another French discovery: L'Ermitage. Owner Fritz Paulsen's staff have all been apprenticed in Europe, and you can certainly recognize this talent. The French cuisine is excellent! . . . Hate to wait for a table? At Sirloin & Brew Unlimited restaurants, if you have to wait, the host will bring you complimentary drinks — wotta deal! . . . If you hadn't noticed, the Gold Creek Mine coupon on this page expires March 31st, USE IT WHILE YOU CAN!! . . . Here's a news flash: The 2nd Annual Amador Concert, sponsored by the Mt. View Rotary Club will be held at 2 p.m. Sun. Mar. 30 at Foothill College Theater. August, Ezequiel, and Ismael, their nieces and nephews will all be performing. I can guarantee this will be an evening filled with talent. See 'ya there . . . Correction: The Second Floor Restaurant's telephone number has recently been changed to 395-6888. A favorite place to lunch or dine in Los Gatos . . . Nancy Krause plays guitar and sings at Dino's La Bella Pasta Ristorante in Foster City Thurs. to Mon . . . The Two Sisters' Restaurant, Los Altos, is managed by Jean Wolfgram's daughter, Trina, and very efficiently. They'll soon be celebrating their 4th successful year in business — how time flies!

Remember, from Bayshore Freeway #101 you can see the sign of the restaurant, just No. of San Antonio Rd. — so stop by and enjoy Happy Hour 4-6 p.m. Mon.-Fri. w/delicious complimentary hors d'oeuvres, & watch the new giant TV screen in the bar-lounge.

CHEF CHU sends "Easter Greetings" to everyone & makes a suggestion . . . just in case you tire of Baked Ham or Roast Leg of Lamb & the usual Easter specialties, he suggests you stop by & enjoy a fine Chinese dinner. CHEF CHU's is continuing to serve excellent Northern Chinese cuisine to everyone. He & his assistants are still in a very festive mood after just having celebrated his restaurant's 10th anniversary. Stop by & enjoy!

If you're driving in downtown Los Altos, why not linger on to enjoy a fine Mexican dinner at the BULLFIGHTER INN? It's located at 1st & Main, just 1 step off Foothill Blvd. Fwy. — very convenient & lovely. You'll be served authentic Mexican cuisine by personable waiters & if you're lucky, you just might be seated by one of the handsome Garcia twins, who manage & operate this restaurant. They have a lively cantina serving drinks of your choice & specializing in a giant Margarita. This is one to put on your list of "must visits."

A fabulous Easter Brunch will be served in GUNGA DIN'S at the Sunnyvale Hilton Inn from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and including a host of breakfast and luncheon treats, both hot and cold. Waffles and hot cakes will be specially prepared by the restaurant's chefs while unlimited champange will be available. The Easter Bunny will be there to greet guests with a wonderful assortment of candy for everyone. For dessert, guests are invited to make their own sundae from the soft ice cream machine and an array of toppings.

Just talked to that very personable Tom Wong, owner of IMPERIAL GARDENS restaurant in Mt. View. He wishes all of his customers a "Happy Easter" holiday & invites them to stop by & enjoy dining in his lovely restaurant — the garden setting is breathtaking — ea. room overlooks the Oriental pond w/a turning water wheel. Incidentally, the IMPERIAL GARDENS is open 7 days a wk. for your dining pleasure; Happy Hour 5-7 Tues.-Fri. w/hot hors d'oeuvres. Don't forget CHARLIE TAGAWA entertains Fri. & Sat. nites — & he's very talented! P.S. So is his pretty wife, Masako!

The GARDEN CITY continues to be an entertainment mecca for Peninsulites . . . every Wed. nite you can be entertained by "TIFFANY STRINGS" from 5-8 p.m . . . favorites Bud Dimock & Marty Mann take over & entertain in their own inimitable style thruout the evening. The GARDEN CITY is indeed unusual as you can enjoy great dinners until 12 a.m.; stop in the gaming room or enjoy fine entertainment in the lounge. The GARDEN CITY is located on So. Saratoga Ave. off Stevens Creek Blvd., S.J. See you there.

Don't be fooled by the name SIRLOIN & BREW UNLIMITED . . . all 7 restaurants serve Catalina Chicken & Snapper cooked in addition to their delicious steaks. Both of these complete dinners are under $5 — it's a great place to take a group because they cannot drink you out of house & home. SIRLOIN & BREW UNLIMITEDS provide all the wine & beer & it's all incl. in the price of your dinner. It's no wonder they call it America's best dinner house value. Open for dinner only from 4 p.m.

Earlybirds are already making reservations for the traditional Easter feast at the PRIME RIB INN. The Inn, w/its unbeatable combination of elegant decor, top-flight food & service & moderate prices, has long been a family favorite for Holiday dining. Mgr. Louis Orsini w/be featuring a spec. dinner menu spotlighting many of the Prime Rib Inn's most popular specialties, & the doors w/open at noon on Easter Sunday to accommodate the many families who prefer an early dinner.

An unforgettable Easter Sun. can be enjoyed in the lovely refined atmosphere of the new RUBY KING restaurant . . . tho they won't be serving Baked Ham & the like, Easter festivities w/be enjoyed & delicious Dim Sum luncheons w/be served on Sun. (which is a treat in itself). I highly recommend you try their gourmet Cantonese cuisine prepared by chefs from Hong Kong, Singapore & Taipai where RUBY KING'S other restaurants are very popular. RUBY KING is also available for spec. parties, banquets & meetings — plenty of room for dancing & big band facilities upstairs. Call 941-5656 for more particulars.

For a great Easter Sun. Brunch, why not plan on visiting JAN'S VALLEY INN? Their Sun. Brunch is one of the best on the Peninsula & Easter Sun. will be extra spec. for certain! Brunch is served from 10-2 p.m. & dinner from 5:30-10:30. Complimentary champagne is incl. w/your brunch & the pleasant drive in the Portola Valley countryside will make this a memorable occasion. Don't be late!

Personable Mgr. Bob Dort of the P. A. FISH MARKET restaurant called to tell me that the restaurant is now serving fr. Boston Schrod, Thresher Shark, fr. Eastern Scallops, Trout & Petrale Sole. The fish may be enjoyed in the restaurant or purchased in their retail store either in P.A. or the new Santa Clara location. Also, dinner is served all day on Sun. from 12 noon-9:30 p.m. The Snyl. restaurant also features an Eastern Oyster Bar & cocktail bar. For a great dining experience, stop by the FISH MARKET restaurant soon.

It's always gratifying to see a restaurant "make good" in its first year of operation . . . such is the case at TEIKO'S. This is a charming Continental restaurant located at 303 Bryant (corner of Dana and Bryant), Mt. View. My friends enjoyed a tender Filet Mignon & Veal Oscar — & being fussy eaters, I was delighted when they proclaimed the dinner a huge success. Soup or salad is incl. w/dinner plus fresh sourdough French bread & butter & seasonal fr. vegs. There's plenty of parking either in front or across the st. in the public parking area. Pretty ownerTEIKO w/be on hand to greet you & you can be assured of a great time.

Tips on starting your wine cellar

By MARY LESTER

DO YOU, personally, drink at least a bottle of wine a week? If so, even though this amount is a small consumption of a food-beverage — still, you should think about having a wine cellar for yourself and friends. It is fun, exciting and educational.

All the mystery about how exotic and difficult it is to have a wine cellar should be classified as snobbism. The absolute truth is that anyone can lay claim to a wine cellar whether you have four bottles on the kitchen counter or a thousand or more in a basement.

A good wine cellar should have wines, like "jugs," that are for everyday drinking and wines that are to be consumed on more of a special occasion. Then, of course, there are those wines that are to be brought to the table on extra important dates when it really means something to go to the wine cellar and pick a certain bottle.

There should be more reds among those extra special wines since whites and roses do not generally last as long and are made to be drunk young and fresh. Some roses and whites that I would suggest keeping around for near future use are Mirassou Vineyard's Petite Rose either 1978 or 1979 vintage. The '78 should hold well through 1980 and the '79 through '82 since they contain so much Petite Sirah grapes. Almaden Vineyard's Nectar Rose is a wine almost everyone will love, especially when you are just getting into wines. It has a semi-sweet taste and forgoes the "sour" description of so many dry, table wines. Just be sure to not cellar it much more than six months after purchase. It's for NOW. And, for a dry kind of Rose, it has to be the sophisticated J. Lohr Rose of Cabernet, either vintage '78 or later.

FOR WHITES that will hold up three - four or more years, I would suggest any Paul Masson Pinnacles Selection Fume Blanc or Chardonnay. Since Masson has been putting these gems out, they have, or should, become collector's wines. They not only hold up, but improve. The David Bruce 1978 Estate Bottled Chardonnay will be ready for drinking at its full potential in another two or three years. However, now it is a lovely wine — just in case you can't wait and let it lie in your cellar!

Red wines last much longer than whites or roses and usually even the least expensive (like a $1.25 a bottle) can be kept for a year or so without much difference in the taste. However, the better quality reds are made to be cellared for at least two-three years to insure their reaching peak.

Gemello's 1976 Late Harvest Pinot Noir is intense, wonderful and will last for 20 years. Guglielmo Vineyards' 1977 Barbara is a real buy — nice and fruity. It will go with almost every red meat and also pasta. Should hold up well for three to four years. Then there is Bargetto Winery's wonderful 1978 Late Harvest Zinfandel. This is a remarkable wine that almost everyone in my wine classes has given top points. It has 16 percent alcohol but is so finely balanced that the alcohol is not noticeable. The wine has a fruit taste in the mouth but a dry aftertaste. Lovely.

And, for a special, special wine to cellar, look for a Cygnet Cellars (from Hollister) red wine. Their Zinfandel is heavy in alcohol, loaded with fruit and will hold for years. It's certainly a conversation wine as well as delightful. Cheers!

Savings Without Strings

Most supermarkets attach a lot of strings to their savings. Like "specials" on a few items, good for a few days only. Multiple pricing (3 for this or 4 for that) to get you to buy more than you need. Or issuing their own coupons.

At Lucky, every shopper saves ...every day of the week. Because instead of gimmicks, Lucky gives you low, discount prices in every department, every day. And not just on food and groceries, but low, discount prices on all the non-foods you use as well.

The savings on each item may not seem like a lot...until you add them all up at the checkstand. That's where you'll really see how much you save on your total food bill. Savings without strings seven days a week...that's

Single-interest groups: they've got more power than ever

Some fear they are having a negative impact on government

By NIKKI MEREDITH
Bay City News Service

The label may be new but the phenomenon isn't.

It's now called single-interest politics, but throughout the history of this country — from abolitionists to war protestors — groups have mobilized around single causes.

But there is increasing concern that modern versions of these groups wield much more power than their predecessors, having a negative impact on government.

Actually, approval or disapproval of single-issue politics seems to have a lot to do with whose single issue it is.

Conservatives see single-issue politics as dangerous when environmental groups are able to stop the filling of a dam or delay the opening of a nuclear plant.

Liberals complain about single-issue movements when Howard Jarvis mobilizes an effective tax-cutting drive or when pro-life groups have enough power in the Legislature to hold up the state budget until funds for Medi-cal abortions are dropped.

Those organizing around single issues see them as the best way to achieve change in the face of unresponsive politicians.

Critics, however, see the trend leading to political immobilization and point out that many of these groups push zealously for their narrow concern with little or no regard for overall public interest.

Assemblyman Tom Bates, D-Oakland, says single-politics are "out of control" in this state.

"Politicians know that there are groups of voters who will judge them on one issue alone and ignore everything else," he said.

Bates claims that this type of "tunnel vision" often leads to fragmentation and ineffective overall planning.

Assemblyman Vic Calvo, D-Mountain View, agrees that single-interest groups are much better organized and have much more influence than in the past.

"But I don't think their influence is undue," he said. "These groups should be heard."

Calvo acknowledges that some of the most powerful groups may have destructive potential, but claims that this has not been a problem in his district.

"Voters in my district have good educational backgrounds and are more likely to judge a politician's general performance rather than his position on just one issue," he said.

Assemblyman Bob Naylor, R-Menlo Park, who has only been in the Legislature a little over a year, says he hasn't found the pressure from single-interest groups overpowering, although the "threat" is always there.

"It's painful to realize that if you vote a certain way on some issues, you may permanently alienate specific groups of voters.

"All you can do is hope people will respect you for the time and effort you devote to making what are sometimes very tough decisions," he said.

Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, who has long been identified with "pro-life" groups, challenges the single-interest label.

"The issue of abortion, for example, is actually many issues," he said. "It involves euthanasia, parental consent and informed consent."

McAlister also adds that there is nothing new about the influence of special interest groups on legislative bodies.

"The use of leverage in politics is as old as the history of mankind," he said.

Eugene Lee, director of the Institute of Governmental Studies at University of California at Berkeley, says what is new about special-interest groups is that they exist in a context of ineffective governmental institutions.

"The Legislature is weak and the political parties are weak, so this leaves a lot of power to well organized single-issue groups — especially in California where we have the initiative process."

Citing the power of Proposition 13 and the Jarvis II campaigns, Lee says these groups are able to legislate without mediation, and without compromise.

Sen. Barry Keene, D-Elk, says that the power of single-interest groups has increased substantially in the "political vacuum" that presently exists in Sacramento.

"With the governor out of the state most of the time and with the speakership position compromised, the traditional power centers which usually work to bring things together are gone," he said. "Consequently, single-interest groups have free reign."

Keene, whose district includes Marin County environmentalists dedicated to preservation of every redwood tree and Northern California loggers economically dependent on cutting them down, admits that he has some special problems in bringing these single-interest groups together.

With great optimism, Keene says he's thinking of using a drawing of a "solar powered chain saw" as the logo for his next political campaign.

Effects of stress will be discussed

The effects of stress on the health of those in industry will be the subject of an all-day symposium at the University of Santa Clara on Thursday, March 27.

Some 200 industry leaders in Santa Clara County are expected to attend the session, which will deal also with the prevention and treatment of stress-related disease.

Featured speakers will include Dr. Alan McLean, associate medical director of IBM Corp.; Dr. Jean S. Felton, clinical professor of community and family medicine at the University of Southern California; and Dr. Witold Krassowski, professor of sociology at SCU.

Joint sponsors of the program are the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, the Institute for Medical Research of San Jose, Peninsula Occupational Medical Society and the SCU Leadership Training Center.

The day will be divided with speakers in the morning and descriptions of company programs on stress-related disease in the afternoon. Firms taking part in the afternoon session will include Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., Western Electric Corp., Crocker Bank and the San Jose Medical Clinic.

Dr. Maurice Rappaport, chairman of the research committee of the Institute of Medical Research and director of its Brain Function Laboratory, will be the moderator.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Mayer Theatre on the university campus, with the program scheduled at 9 a.m. For information and-or reservations, contact the Institute of Medical Research, 751 Bascom Ave., San Jose, 95128, or (408) 998-4554. Conference fee is $75 per person, payable in advance.

Committee planning the symposium includes Dr. David Discher, San Jose Medical Clinic; Dr. Fred Maida, Pacific Telephone; Dr. Michael Dolan, Syntex Corp.; Carl Heintze, Institute of Medical Research; Dr. Anthony Malo, SCU Leadership Training Center; and James Tucker, San Jose Chamber of Commerce.

Wells Fargo's 'Express Stop'

Convenience banking — 24 hours a day, seven days a week, even weekends and holidays — became a reality for 160,000 Wells Fargo Bank customers in Santa Clara county when the Bank's "Express Stop" automated transaction machines became operational in 18 of the bank's branches this week.

Customers with Express Banking cards and a secret code can activate the exterior wall-mounted units 24 hours a day to:

- Withdraw money in $20 increments up to $100 a day;
- Transfer funds between checking and savings accounts;
- Check their account balances;
- Make loan and credit card payments.

Bank customers can use the machine by inserting their Express Banking card, entering their secret code and selecting a particular transaction. If the wrong secret code is used the machine rejects the card, preventing fraudulent use.

Each Express Stop is an IBM 3624 unit which includes a customer keyboard (consisting of both function and numerical keys) and a screen panel on which instructions are given for the use of the function keys which lead the customer through a transaction. The numerical keys are then used to specify the amounts of money involved in the transaction. A receipt is issued summarizing each completed transaction.

consumers corner/When it comes to claims, get ready for battle

By SLIM INGHAM

WE'VE HAD a minor auto collision, not our fault, and a small fire set in our home in an attempt to cover up a burglary. This has put us in contact with three claims adjusters representing two insurance companies. In each case, the adjuster offered much less than we felt — knew! — we were entitled to. We eventually got the replacement value of our possessions lost in the fire and the burglary but had to take our own insurance company to court to make them pay the full costs of the car repairs. Even though the police report clearly stated that the accident was caused by the other driver, (she was cited), our company said we had contributed toward the accident. They called this contributory negligence and would only pay 50 percent of the repairs. We won the case and it was appealed. They lost the appeal and finally paid off after three months. Our rates (premiums) were almost doubled and we are taking them to court again. We don't feel that we should be penalized for the fault or actions of others. Please print this so that others may be advised.

Robert & Myrna Grassley, Los Gatos

The Grassleys won their case and the offending insurance company was admonished by the court but the rules have not changed! The insurance company in a pay-out situation becomes your adversary, it's that simple. Achieving a fast and equitable settlement is hard and hassle laden work and you, as the insured, had better be ready to enter into combat. Don't rely on your insurance agent or broker. His or her allegiance is toward the company, not the insured. Some agents or brokers lose contingent commissions when their policies lose money for the company.

Before you accept any adjustment, make sure it will (contractually) pay for the full repairs or loss. Always communicate in writing with the insurance company and accept no verbal promises or commitments. Get them in writing. Don't sign any quit claim or release until full payment for occurrence or damage has been received. Case closed.

Full moon casts new light on old problem, Taurus

Mar. 29 through April 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Moon enters Libra (the 30th) and low cycle begins. Don't wallow in self pity, Ari, and don't try to drown sorrows. As Venus (planet of love) shimmies into sparkling Gemini (the 3rd) you pull self out of emotional mire and into April sunshine. Week ends with a wink.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Full Moon (the 31st) casts new light on old problem. Shadows you see in forest are just trees, Taurus, and not enemies. After a little fooling around on the 1st, Moon slips into brooding Scorpio and low cycle begins. Ease on down.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): The second Full Moon of March (the 31st) shines on adventure. No need to be timid, Gem. Venus (planet of beauty and sex) tippy-toes into your sign (the 3rd) and game of love may take new turn. Know the score.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Your Moon is full in Libra (the 31st) and procrastination seems likely. Just as well, for this is no time to make critical decision. All Fool's Day (the 1st) presents opportunity for you to make a real fool of yourself. Do it. Week ends with a giggle.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Full Moon in Libra (the 31st) has you humming 'looney tunes' Leo, and then All Fool's Day (the 1st) compounds the craziness. Nevertheless, plan put in motion now can have long-term effect. Week ends on pensive note.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Cycle high Moon in your sign at start of week is ideal time to launch new plan. Seek out Libra (the Scales) for weighty financial advice before you act. Week ends on key of E for balance, bullion and brouhaha.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct 22): Cycle high. Full Moon in your sign (the 31st shines on hidden assets Libra, and others stand in awe, As secrets come to light, you glow like all get out. Venus (your planet glides into flirty Gemin (the 3rd) and you cant seem to get it all said. Week ends with a sigh.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): If Full Moon n Libra (the 31st) has you n proverbial tenterhools concerning decision, Scop, then for heaven's sake postpone it! Moon enters your sign on All Fool's Day (no comment from this department) and high cycle begins. Enjoy! Enjoy!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 - Dec. 21): Full Moon in Libra (the 31st) is time to avoid decisions and confrontations. Postpone until time is more propitious. However, if you're 'in the mood' on All Fool's Day (the 1st) you have full permission to make one of yourself. Simon says. Olga says. And the stars say so too!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 19): Full Moon in Libra (the 31st) shines on career advantage. But do proceed with caution, Cap, as you go from known to unknown. April Fool's Day (the 1st) is time to 'let it all hang out' — providing, of course, that you can pack it all back in again when day is over.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Moon enters Libra and you leave low cycle behind. Full Moon (the 31st) shines on career opportunity. Talk to Libra (the Scales) and weigh all options. All Fool's Day (the 1st) is for fun and flapdoodle. Week ends with a pinch.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Cycle is low, low, low. Full Moon (the 31st) and All Fool's Day (the 1st) don't help matters either. Stay out of the limelight and off of the sauce. With a smidgen of fortune you may actually survive. (But don't press your luck, Pisces!).

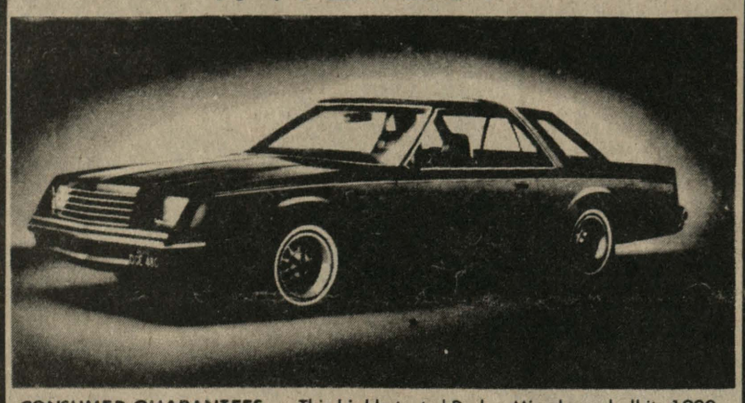
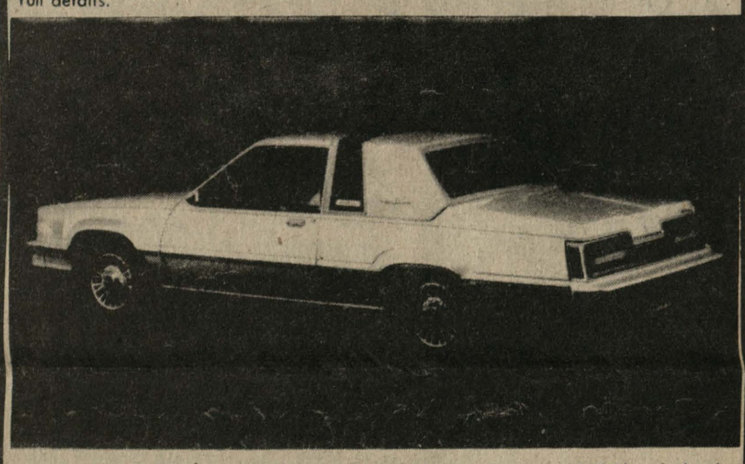
THE AUTO SHOW OF CONSUMING INTEREST



CONSUMER GUARANTEES — This highly touted Dodge Mirada and all its 1980 Chrysler Corp. cousins now come with some remarkable consumer guarantees and benefits. Included is a 30 day/1,000 mile money back offer; up to 24 month/24,000 mile free scheduled service; membership in the AMOCO Motor Club and a $50 test drive to those who qualify. Check with your local Dodge and Chrysler dealers for full details.



EXTRA ADVANTAGE — This beautiful new Silver Anniversary 1980 Thunderbird now has an extra advantage for the new car buyer (besides the four speed automatic overdrive), that being a just announced $500 rebate offer direct from Ford in Dearborn. Other Ford models that qualify for rebates are 1980 Fairmonts ($300) and only for California buyers a $400 rebate on 1980 Mustangs. The same models of leftover 1979's also qualify for similar rebates.

OFFER REBATES — Not to be left behind . . . Lincoln-Mercury dealers have a similar offer available to their customers including $400 rebates on the sporty 1979 & 1980 Capri models (only in California). Rebates are also available on 1979 and 1980 Zephyrs ($300) (pictured) and 1979 and 1980 Cougars ($500).

IN COMPETITION — Not to be outdone General Motors has announced $500 rebates on 1979 Chevy and GMC Vans and on 1979 "B" bodies which include: Chevrolet Caprice (as pictured); Chevrolet Impala; Buick Le Sabre; Oldsmobile Delta 88; and Pontiac Catalina and Bonneville Models.

FROM THE BACK SEAT . . . Good friend Steve Harris, former Chevrolet PR manager in the west has shuffled off to Detroit to join American Motors as their Director of Corporate Product Communications. Taking over the Chevy slot is Bill Ott. "Super guy" Bill comes by way of GM's L.A. public relations office. Replacing Bill as Ron Hartwig's able assistant is John Pekarek, newly arrived from the east. (Now that I've mentioned everyone's name — you'd think I could get a free lunch!) . . . Jaguar Rover Triumph Inc. will introduce their new TR8 and Rover to the press mid-March . . . Bob Beaver of Liason Agency tells me that the new Peuguot 505 is a great sight to behold and drive — look for introduction in late April . . Motor Trend Magazine has announced the domestic and import "Car of The Year" awards. The homeground Citation from Chevrolet even beat out its sister X-cars in stiff competition — congrats to Bob Lund (VP & General Mgr. of Chevy) and all his staff. From across the big water (this time the Pacific) the winner is the Honda Civic. Going against some heavy competition the little Civic well proved its worth, and should be well worth looking into . . . Buick scored big in L.A. last month getting a new all time sales record according to Bill Miller, Buick's L.A. Zone Manager. Leading the pace was the Skylark (X-car) and the new four-door Century models . . Note — most GM dealers will be getting in Diesel engine cars soon — the engine recently receiving approval from California's Air Resource Board . . . Look for the new Datsun 280ZX10 — a special edition to help celebrate the tenth anniversary of the "Z" car introduction . . A reminder for your calendar — the third annual SCORE-Off-Road Equipment Show will be coming up March 6-9 at the Anaheim Convention Center . . . And one more reminder for March, the west's greatest Formula I car race, the Long Beach Grand Prix is coming and it should be fast and fantastic!
